

CHAMILLIONAIRE

RIDING DIRTY

What is the title of your new album?

The new album is called Ultimate Victory. I'm not going out there trying to make another record like "Ridin" and the face of hip-hop has changed and the stuff that is a little more raw is taking over right now. I'm just making an album that has concepts and a lot of creativity on it and blend it together real well.

The last album got you a Grammy. How did that make you feel?

It was great! When we made the record I never thought it would get a grammy or nothing like that, but I knew we had something big.

Would you ever do any movies?

I have had scripts come thru but I am focusing on the music right now until the right script comes along. I want to make sure everything is good with the music side of things first.

You and Krayzie work together real good. Would you work with him again in the future?

I actually have a song on the new album with him but this time I got all of Bone Thugs-N-Harmony. I was always a big Bone fan!

Houston is really blowing up right now. There has been a lot of success over the last couple of years coming from Houston. How does that make you feel knowing that you are part of that success?

It definitely aint a one man show because there is a lot of talent over here putting it down. IT makes me feel good to know that I am out at the time that Houston has been successful. It is always good to see your home town be on top.

When Weird Al made a parody of "Ridin' Dirty" how did that make you feel?

It was real crazy for me because I remember him from when he used to do all of the Michael Jackson stuff that he did back in the day. Once he touches one of your songs you know that you made it. He did a real good job.

How are things with you and Paul Wall?

Right now everything is good. I am trying to get along with everybody in the game. I don't have nothing negative to say about anyone.

Are there any other people from Houston coming up right now?

There is a guy named Trey from the Screwed Up Click who is making a lot of noise right now. Hey has a real hard style. Really to be honest Houston is just the flip side to that you really don't sound like anything else from H-Town.

Did you do that on purpose?

I always try to be different from everyone whether it is Houston or anywhere. I want my music to stand out and appeal to everyone world wide. I do think I still have a Houston sound in my music though.

If you came out five or ten years ago do you think you would have been as successful as you are right now?

I think everything happens for a reason and right now things are going really good for me. I think the game would of embraced me ten years ago.

Is there anything else homie?

No I'm good!
